

ABSTRACT

The infection of a mammalian host by a microorganism can be prevented or treated through the alteration of the expression of hypha-specific gene. These compounds may be 5 used in the identification, prevention or treatment of microbial infection of mammalian hosts such as immunocompromised or immunosuppressed humans, for example, those having AIDS or undergoing transplantation or anti-cancer therapy.

043725410 • 112938